TALK IT OVER

We are all living on mission for something or someone. What are the indicators of what we are really living for? Mission is not something we add to our life. It IS our life. Explain. We won’t change the world by going to church – we will change it by being the church. How have you done that or witnessed someone else doing it this week? The Gospel always moves toward people with hope. Who did that for you? How have you found both your world and heart getting bigger since Jesus changed your life? Paul was not intimidated by culture; he was compelled by calling. That made him unashamed of the Gospel. He knew it was the only power for transformation. Most of us would say we, too, are unashamed, yet we are intimidated. Why? And how do we change it? How do I keep front and center that I am here to reveal God to the world?

ACTION STEP
